Green Marine Environmental program

ASSOCIATIONS

ASSOCIATION ROLE

As Green Marine is both an individual project (each participant pledges to improve its environmental performance) and a marine industry group undertaking, industry associations have a crucial role to play vis-à-vis their members.

In addition to improving the industry's environmental performance, Green Marine seeks to create and strengthen dialogue and joint efforts between the stakeholders and partners that support the industry in its sustainable development approach, namely: governments, environmental groups, research centres, etc.

By joining Green Marine, associations agree to serve as ambassadors for the environmental program by encouraging their members to join and /or endorse the program and promoting the efforts and successes of Green Marine to industry partners, government authorities and other stakeholders.
